

Enrique Aparicio

Technical Director | LUVE Iberica | enrique.aparicio@luvegroup.com

Bio

Enrique Aparicio joined LUVE Iberica as an engineer in 1999, participating in designs and innovations for precision air equipment and since 2013 he is the General Manager of LUVE Iberica, currently he is part of the management board of LUVE GROUP, based in Italy, which is a one of the leader manufacturer in the world of refrigeration equipment

Abstract

Developing Fit-for-Purpose Solutions: Heat Exchangers

2018 will be a year of important challenges all around the world, including America Latina. The reduction of direct and indirect emissions is the most important target.

Are HFC heat exchangers suitable for CO₂? Increasing performance of CO₂ gas coolers, Increasing performance of CO₂ unit coolers, Test results and LU-VE software reliability.